

The Center for Iberian & Latin American Studies, UCSD

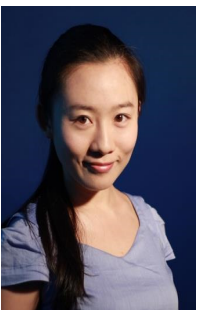

Energy Investment Governance in Argentina and Peru

Thursday, April 17, 2014, 3-4:30 PM

Deutz Room in the Copley International Conference Center, Institute of the Americas Complex, UCSD

Government control of energy investment in most Latin America countries was usually strict in the past half century; the concept of “energy nationalism” was used to explain the high governance of the energy sector in some Latin America countries. But present conditions of energy investment governance now vary across countries. My research examines the similarities and differences of energy investment governance in Argentina and Peru to analyze their effect on investment in the energy sector.

Jia Tian obtained her BA in Journalism and Economics from Tianjin University of Finance and Economics in 2009 and her MA in Journalism and Communication from Tsinghua University in 2012. She is a PhD student in the Political Science department at Tsinghua University in China. Jia was awarded a scholarship by the China Scholarship Council to be a Visiting Graduate Student at CILAS during the 2013-2014 academic year. Jia will be a visiting PhD student in the fall of 2014 at the Universidad Torcuato Di Tella in Argentina.

•For information on upcoming events please visit our website <https://cilas.ucsd.edu/events/index.html>