

The Center for Iberian & Latin American Studies, UCSD

Tax reforms and political interests in the early 19th and 21st centuries. A comparative study of the cases of Colombia, Chile and Mexico.

Tuesday, May 27, 2014, 3-4:30 PM

Cramb Library Room in the Gildred/LAS Building, Institute of the Americas Complex, UCSD

The seminar will be in Spanish.

Tax reform is one of the outstanding issues in contemporary Latin America. Tax rates are often very low and collection is problematic. The development and reforms of the tax systems in the early 19th and 21st centuries are part of the context within which today's efforts to develop modern and efficient tax systems play out. Understanding these past experiences sheds light on the present and future challenges of tax reform. History matters.

Pedro Pérez-Herrero is the Director of the Latin American Studies Institute and full time professor at the University of Alcalá in Spain. He is also the Academic Director of the Latin America and European Union PhD and MA Program. Pedro received his first BA in Latin American History and a second BA in Anthropology from the Complutense University of Madrid, and his PhD in History from El Colegio de México. He is a member of the Mexican Academy of History. Pedro is currently a Visiting Scholar in CILAS and Visiting Professor in the History Department, UCSD.

●For information on upcoming events please visit our website <https://cilas.ucsd.edu/events/index.html>